FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ILOGON PARTNERS WITH MERCHANTS INFORMATION SOLUTIONS

iLogon Inc., an Internet Startup focused on aggregating and managing online subscriptions, announces partnership with Merchants Information Solutions Inc., to provide SmartIDentity to all iLogon users.

Phoenix, AZ – March 30, 2009 – iLogon, the leading provider of subscription management services on the web, today announced a partnership with Merchants Information Solutions. This partnership will provide all iLogon users access to the Merchants world-class SmartIDentity line of Identity Theft Prevention and Recovery Services.

iLogon is launching an industry leading application for aggregating and managing online subscriptions to premium content and service websites. The application will provide single sign-on, consolidated billing, and discounts on subscription fees. iLogon allows a user to create a single account, then pick only the subscription based services they want, and “package” these services into a single bundled account. Users will then use their iLogon account to seamlessly sign in to access all of their subscriptions.

“With SmartIDentity, our users can feel comfortable providing personal information on the web, because in addition to the comprehensive security measures we have in place, SmartIDentity provides an added layer of protection against identity theft”, says iLogon CEO, Anthony Argenziano. “By providing the SmartIDentity service free to all iLogon users, and offering upgrades to the SmartIDentity+ services, we are providing valuable resources against identity theft to our users. No one should be without identity theft protection in these times.”

iLogon is running a promotion for Beta users that will provide a free one year membership to SmartIDentity “We want to reward and incent our beta users to sign up for the service and see for themselves how we can save them time and money” says Argenziano. “We’re still building up our portfolio of partner sites, so we appreciate the early adopters, and providing free services to these users is our way of showing our appreciation, as well as showing them the value of the solution.”

“We appreciate the opportunity to get in at the ground-level of such a wonderful concept, and look forward to providing iLogon customers with our comprehensive Identity Theft solution, SmartIDentity” stated Russ Johnson, Merchants CEO.

Mark Pribish, Vice President and ID Theft Practice Leader with Merchants added “ID theft restoration and protection is a critical need in today’s world of high-tech and social engineering and the criminals who use it to steal personal information. Now iLogon customers have peace of mind knowing that if they ever become a victim of identity theft while an iLogon user, Merchants will be there for them to fully manage their identity theft restoration case and return them to a pre-victim status.”

Pribish, who is invited to speak throughout the United States as a subject matter expert on ID Theft and Information Security Risk Management, noted that “no one company can guarantee protection from a data breach, and that the sooner businesses understand this fact, the sooner they will be able to improve their information security.”
